DETAILED ACTION

Acknowledgment

1. This Office Action is responsive to the Amendment filed on 10/25/2007.

Allowable Subject Matter

- 2. Claims 1-13 are allowed.
- 3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art of record, taken alone or in combination, fails to teach or suggest the arrangement of a chip card having a card body; chip module embedded in the card body and incorporating an integrated circuit, the card body including at lest one security feature incorporated in a layer, or applied on the surface, of the card body; and especially, the card body further comprises an additional tamper-detection layer including a conductive pattern forming an electrical loop connected between terminals of the integrated circuit, and especially, the conductive pattern having at least one region located beneath or above the security feature; and especially, wherein the integrated circuit is adapted to perform an integrity check of the conductive pattern for conditionally performing further operations only in case the integrity is recognized as recited in claims 1 and 8 and further limitations of their respective dependent claims 2-7 and 8-13.

The admitted prior art teaches a chip card that having a card body and a chip module that is embedded in the card body and incorporates an integrated circuit (see pages 1-2 of the instant application). The previously cited reference McCabe et al. (US 6,068,192) teaches a temper resistance card that having a housing; wherein the housing including a first and second portion that are connect together; wherein the first and second portion each having a conductor; an integrated circuit chip supported in the housing (see figure 1 and the abstract). The cited reference Zercher (US 6,702,185 B1) teaches an identification device including an integrated circuit; a plurality of layers (see figure 4). Without the benefit of applicant's teachings, there is no motivation for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the various features from the prior art in a manner so as to create the claimed invention.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
